cattle, is mostly over, although Tracy, Chapin & Co., and Sholl & Scoville still do something in that line.

Robinson, Oviatt & Converse have finished slaughtering and packing. During the season they have packed 7550 Hogs, and 3060 Cattle. These hogs have come mostly from this State, and the cattle mostly off the Reserve. About one third of the above beef and pork has been shipped to New Has been proved, by twelve years' experience, the best the above beef and pork has been shipped to New remady for CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, &c., and is York, the balance being sold in town. They have slaughtered about 1500 more hogs and one third sore cattle than they did last year.

Rose & Brother have killed during the past week between two and three hundred hogs, mostly for their retail trade. Tracy, Chapin & Co. slaughtered during week ending Dec. 18th, 817 hogs and 274 cattle. This firm have done the heaviest business during the season of any of the packers, and their yearly statement will foot up largely. They still are in receipt of cattle and hogs from the West, much of which they ship to the East.

Sholl & Scoville have done a large commission business this season and are still actively engaged. The contract with Col. N. M. Standart for beef for the English Navy is not yet entirely filled. Their number of cattle slaughtered does not sound as largely as the number of tierces, the cattle being remarkably heavy. During two weeks ending last time.

The Memphis and El Paso road desires to unite its interest with the South Pacific. LAST NIGHT'S REPORT.

CONGRESSIONAL Washington, Dec. 22. SENATE. The Pacific B. R. bill came up. Mr. Seware of New York, addressed the Senate. He began by saying the descendants of the Dutch Colonists of New York kept forever bright the memories of their fatherland. When, however, he traveled in Holland he could hardly find there one lingering tradition of the settlement of New Netherlands. It was always so. The affection of the emigrant for his native country is ever stronger than the sympathies of that country for its exiles. The Senstors from California, as yet only depresentatives here of society on the Pacific coast, are committed to this great measure and carnest in its support. So he hoped that if his arguments in response to them seemed addressed to the Senators from the Atlantic States, they would do him the justice to reflect that it is only on this side of the Rocky Mountains that the snow and ice of justificarage and prejudice seals consistent.

the justice to reflect that it is only on this side of the Rocky Monntains that the snow and ice of indifference and prejudice resist conviction.

He would not say much concerning the details to prescribe the route and the policy of constructing a Pacific Railroad now. He would choose a path which would be a continuation of the road that our great Northwestern emigration has hither to followed. He would discard all employment of companies and all grants of public lands, and would build the road as a military post road or national highway, with the money and credit of the Federal Government and surrender the lands along its route to actual settlers, free of cost. He would increase the revenues by an increase of imports and create the sinking fund to abolish gradually the public debt; but he had concurred in pressing this bill because it was the only alternative. He admitted that there were many objections for which the bill was obnovious, but the time for deliberation has come to an end and that for action to begin.—He being in earnest in this desire for a Pacific Railroad, he would accept this bill.

Mr. Seward then answered successively the general objections against the construction of the road. Commerce is only an incidental interest in connection with the road. It is wanted first and chiefly for postal and military, that is to say, for political purposes. It is a grand error to rely on commerce for such highways in territories where society has to be called into existence, or that they can be dispensed with until society is created.—

The treaty of Gondaloupe Hudaigo extended the national jurisdiction across the Rocky Mountains to the Pacific, and from that moment a necessity for postal and military highways across was disclosed. Our contentions in Utah, Central Ameri-

for postal and military highways across was dis-closed. Our contentions in Utah, Central Ameri-ca and Mexico, and with France and England, are legitimate consequences of the reliance on routes through foreign countries instead of through our
